

Please Click Here to Review this Short Story

Lisa

'Run Lisa, Run.' Her bare foot pounded against the hot sand as the wind swept her golden vanilla-scented hair. Her lungs felt as if they were about to burst. Behind her, the sky; ominously dark and the world; filled with inhuman screams, but when she turned around to look, everything was sane. But she senses that something evil and dangerous is behind her, waiting for the perfect moment to grab her. She made a quick left to the forest and raced through the trees. As she made her way to the heart of the forest, everything bloomed bright and warm. The birds were chirping and the golden sun rays bathe her with warmth. It was as if the cold feeling just vanished. As she made her way deeper into the forest, she notice a run-down well. As if she was hypnotized, she slowly walk towards it. Suddenly a mysterious man came out of the woods. His clothes weren't like what a modern person would wear. And his face, it was as if it he was a mythological god. His entirety was so perfect that it looked as if he doesn't have any flaws. "Lisa, I'm so glad that I found you." whispered the strange man. " We don't have a lot of time but you are in danger and you must find it." "Wait, what do I have to find?" I shouted to him. Curiously, I walked up to the stranger, "Who are you?" As soon as I reached near him, he quickly backed off and said "My name is Viktor, and I can't tell you no more, and NOW, AWAKE!"

Please Click Here to Review this Short Story