

Please Click Here to Review this Short Story

Turning Point

She told herself she would make it. The dream of being at campus in Northampton Massachusetts was all she desired. When she had visited months before she knew it was going to be her new home.

“Just imagine when you go to Barnard and I go to Smith Veronica! Ahh I can not wait”. She said imagining her Birkenstocks stepping on campus.

It was the month of March that most people would get their acceptance letters. Michelle had received more than her friends by the end of february. She had no doubt that Smith would accept the talented and motivated girl that she was.

“Michelle I’m surprised how many times you check your email. Even more than I check facebook.” Veronica said.

“Yeah well, I haven’t heard from Smith yet! Im worried.”

“Relax, you’ll get in! Now c’mon let’s go downstairs and get lunch before the doors close!”

BONG the bell rang off and it was time for class. Michelle ran upstairs and signed in her email. Inbox (1) Smith College. The moment was here. The moment that would change her life in minutes.

Please Click Here to Review this Short Story